ELDON INSURANCE SERVICES GOES LIVE WITH LANDSCAPE

Eldon Insurance Services (Eldon) goes live with Landscape, following a smooth nine month migration process from its old technology platform. Phased adoption of the end-to-end insurance administration solution from RDT, minimised business continuity risks typically associated with moving to a new back office system. The staged roll-out also allowed Eldon to identify additional opportunities to tailor the solution to meet future business needs.

Matthew Puttick, Chief Operating Officer at Eldon said: "We have confidence in the RDT system and have been impressed with the accessibility and knowledge of the RDT team. The system has gone live and is delivering in line with our 'must have' requirements. The next step will be to work with RDT to further harness the solution's flexibility and scalability so that we can continue to innovate and differentiate our service."

Landscape will improve operational efficiency and support Eldon's underlying business goal to deliver a cost effective, market leading, claims management service. Eldon handles over 60,000 policy transactions and 2,000 new claims a month on behalf of Southern Rock Insurance Company and a robust administration system was critical to drive down costs and enhance customer service. Matthew Puttick, comments: "It is imperative that Eldon is able to respond to market issues and has a technology platform with the potential for development around our evolving requirements."

Landscape was selected for its rich functionality, scalability and ability to be mapped to Eldon's business processes. Implementation has seen the platform configured to Eldon's specific needs, automating many manual systems and improving operational performance. Landscape's workflow functionality automatically generates workflow tasks for Eldon's claims handlers. The platform has also been integrated with existing applications like Eldon's document management system, removing the need for manual tagging of documents. Eldon's people are freed up to focus on tasks requiring human input and decision making, providing further added value to customers.

Matthew Puttick concludes: "The Landscape package is easy to use and provides management information that is updated in real time. This assists Eldon with monitoring business performance and supports informed, strategic decision making."

RDT Chief Executive Mark Bates comments: "Eldon joins a growing community of insurers, of all sizes, who are powering their organisations with Landscape. We continue to innovate and develop the platform in response to market needs. We look forward to delivering increased benefit to Eldon, as working in partnership we configure the solution further, later this year, to meet their evolving business requirements."
